Toronto-Austin nonstop flights begin on Air Canada

Air Canada made Toronto the newest international nonstop flight from Austin-Bergstrom International Airport with inaugural service on May 18, 2015.

“Austin is a vibrant cultural and business center and Air Canada’s new service is designed to connect the city to our global network through our Toronto hub, offering customers more choices and connections to and from our extensive North American, European, Asian, and South American network,” said Benjamin Smith, President, Passenger Airlines, Air Canada.

Direct business connections exist between companies in Toronto and Austin. Culturally, these cities are building stronger connections through music. Toronto’s NXNE (North by Northeast) music festival features an Austin showcase. The new flight is just in time for summer fun in Toronto as NXNE is held June 17-21, 2015.

Flights depart Toronto (YYZ) at 2:25 p.m. and arrive in Austin (AUS) at 4:45 p.m. Flights depart Austin at 5:20 p.m. and arrive in Toronto at 9:30 p.m., all times local.

The Austin-Toronto nonstop is operated under the Air Canada Express brand by Jazz Aviation LP with CRJ 705 aircraft. The CRJ 705 offers 10 premium seats and 65 economy seats. Each seat comes with a personal touch TV with on-demand audio and video available.

Newer, Bigger, Better — Passenger screening area expected to open in June as terminal addition project nears completion

In June 2015, a new passenger screening checkpoint was preparing to open as the terminal addition known as the Terminal East Infill Project neared completion at Austin-Bergstrom International Airport.

The new screening checkpoint has six screening lanes and creates a new connection in the terminal from the east ticket lobby to the concourse at approximately Gate 5.

Opening the new checkpoint marks the completion of all new passenger processing areas created by the project. The lower level of the addition opened with the debut of the new Customs area in December 2014.

“Passenger growth has steadily increased since January 2010 from 8.6 million passengers annually to 10.7 million in 2014.”

Once the new, six lane passenger screening facility of the Infill project opens, a screening area with four lanes currently next to the Southwest ticket counter, known as checkpoint #1, will be closed. This area will be converted into more ticket counter space and a more efficient exit lane from the concourse.

Final completion of the Terminal East Infill will occur in phases over summer 2015. Still to be finished are administrative offices and two new bag carousels for travelers on domestic flights. The new bag carousels are scheduled to open in late summer 2015. One carousel will be newly built. The other carousel served the former Customs area. When these two new carousels open, it will expand bag claim from five carousels to seven.

The purpose of the Infill Project is to expand terminal capacity and make travel through Austin’s airport more pleasurable and efficient. This is needed in order to keep up with passenger growth. Passenger growth at Austin’s airport has steadily increased since January 2010 from 8.6 million passengers annually to 10.7 million in 2014. Dubbed the Terminal East Infill Project, its location has filled in a gap between the east ticking lobby and the east concourse.

The project is adding 56,700 square feet to the existing terminal and renovating approximately 17,000 existing square feet. The project is budgeted at $62 million.

A new passenger screening checkpoint featuring 6 screening lanes will be opening on the upper level of the Terminal East Infill Project. The lower level of the addition debuted a new Customs area in December 2014.

Million Passenger Month in March

March 2015 set a new passenger record with 1,006,899 traveling through Austin-Bergstrom. This marks the second time monthly traffic has reached the million passenger mark. The previous monthly record of 1,006,417 was set in July 2014. March events in Austin, such as SXSW, contributed to the record passenger record traffic. March continued the airport’s trend of passenger growth in 62 of the last 63 months.

Ninth Annual Kid Band Week stars local teen musicians

Enjoy the music of young, local talent at Austin airport’s 9th Annual Kid Band Week, July 20-24, 2015. This popular annual event features a diverse group of Austin-area musicians ages 12 to 17 playing blues, pop, and more. Shows are held on the Asleep at the Wheel stage at Ray Benson’s Roadhouse near Gate 10 from 3:30 pm-5:30 pm.

Kid Band Week is made possible by Pepsi and airport concessionaire Delaware North Companies Travel Hospitality Services (DNC). All performances are located past security checkpoints and available to ticketed passengers only.

These performances are among the 23 live music performances presented weekly at the airport in six venues. Regularly scheduled performances are held Mondays through Fridays at various times pending location.

Air service marketing top award

Austin-Bergstrom International Airport won top honors in the Americas region of the Routes Awards. The Routes Awards are regarded as the most prestigious awards in the industry, as they are voted for and judged by the airline network planning community. Airlines provide input on which airport provides the best overall marketing services, delivers the most effective results, and creates smart and innovative techniques to establish new or maintain and develop existing routes. The award makes Austin's airport a contender for the World Routes Marketing Awards held in Durban, South Africa in September 2015. In addition to Overall Winner, Austins won its size category, 4-20 million passengers.
